Sir,

Following Nick Freeman's advice to Toyota owners with cars affected by the recall (If your car is faulty don't drive it, 9 February), the Association of British Insurers can reassure drivers awaiting recall that they are still covered by their motor insurance policy.

Any claims will be dealt with in the normal way, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the policy. Anyone who owns one of the cars affected and has not already done so should contact their local Toyota dealer.
