The UK insurance and long-term savings industry is the largest in Europe and the fourth largest in the world.

It plays an essential part in the UK’s economic strength, managing investments of almost £1.6 trillion and over £16 billion in taxes paid to and collected for the Government. It employs around 310,000 individuals, of which around a third are employed directly by providers with the remainder in auxiliary services such as broking.

On behalf of its members, the ABI works with government, regulators and policymakers to create and maintain effective insurance markets for consumers, and represents the UK insurance and long-term savings market in the media. We provide consumers with general information on insurance and savings products and services, and promote best practice, transparency and high standards within the industry.

Each year the ABI publishes a summary booklet of the UK insurance and long-term savings industry. This booklet provides facts and figures on 2019 (unless otherwise stated and where available) about UK insurance and long-term savings\(^1\) and its significant contribution both to the economy and society.

Insurance & long-term savings: Important role as investors

Insurers that provide long-term savings and life insurance products ensure they meet their long-term liabilities by investing the premiums received in different types of investments.

At the end of 2019 ABI members held £1.6trn of assets, of which £1.48trn was held by life insurance companies.

UK Equity holdings have decreased from 15% of the total in 2009 to only 5% today. Overseas Equity has also decreased, falling two percentage points in the last 10 years. Property investments have however increased over the same period, and in 2019 reached holdings of £117bn.
