With the publication of its policy statement PS11/19 'Enhancing banks' and insurers' approach to managing the financial risks from climate change', the PRA has become the first regulator in the world to issue guidance on this risk.

Now insurers have to implement it – which as a start involves putting in place an initial plan and assigning a responsible Senior Management Function by 15 October.

This breakfast briefing will bring together the regulator, practitioners and external experts to discuss the PRA's new guidance and provide industry with practical steps and considerations for a smooth implementation.
