

The future of conduct regulation webinar

Tuesday 12th May 2020

In light of the UK's forthcoming withdrawal from the EU, and ten years after the financial crisis, which led to an overhaul of financial regulation, now is the right time to consider whether the current regulatory framework is fit for purpose and what the future of conduct regulation could look like.

Currently, there are many, often overlapping, requirements deriving from EU legislation and the FCA's own requirements. Put together, these can create a 'patchwork' effect of regulation that can often lead to worse outcomes, with competing burdens on firms and increased confusion for consumers of insurance and long terms savings products.

A regulatory framework fit for the future of UK financial services could involve a streamlining of regulatory requirements, stronger consumer protection and communications, promoting healthy competition across the industry and improving UK competitiveness.

This webinar will consider the opportunities and challenges of conduct regulation, the FCA's rule book, and the possibilities for shaping the UK's financial services regulatory landscape of the future.

10:25	Registration
10:30	Welcome & Introduction
	Hugh Savill, Director of Regulation, ABI
10:40	Keynote Address One
	Julian Adams, Director, Public Policy and Regulation, M&G
11:00	Panel One
	Chair: Hugh Savill, Director of Regulation, ABI <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Paul Brady, Head of Policyholder and Third Party Oversight, Lloyd's ○ Zoe Shapiro, Chief Risk Officer, Bupa Insurance ○ Michael Sicsic, Partner and Advisor, Huntswood ○ William Vidonja, Head of Conduct of Business, Insurance Europe
11:35	Keynote Address Two
	Matt Brewis, Director of General Insurance and Conduct Specialists / Supervision & Retail Authorisations, FCA
11:55	Concluding Remarks and Close
	Hugh Savill, Director of Regulation, ABI